LETTER OF RECOMMENDATION

BLAKE REED - INDUSTRIAL DESIGNER

JANUARY 2026

To whom it may concern,

I am writing to provide a strong recommendation for Blake, who completed an industrial design internship with Wild Modular in our Pyrmont design studio.

During his time with us, Blake demonstrated a high level of technical aptitude, and genuine curiosity for how good design translates into real-world manufacturing and construction outcomes. Wild Modular operates at the intersection of architecture, industrial design, and modular construction, and Blake proved himself highly capable of working within this complex, multidisciplinary environment.

Blake contributed meaningfully across a range of tasks on live projects, including modelling complex products (that will be built), material research, technical documentation, and the development of bespoke components aligned with our Design for Manufacture and Assembly (DfMA) principles. He showed particular strength in understanding how individual components interface within a larger modular system, and he consistently approached problems with a practical, buildable mindset.

What stood out most was Blake's attitude. He was reliable, proactive, and receptive to feedback, and he took clear pride in producing work of a high standard. He asked thoughtful questions, absorbed information quickly, and steadily improved the quality and efficiency of his outputs over the course of his internship. For an intern, his level of engagement and accountability was exceptional.

Blake also conducted site observations of modular installations, where he demonstrated a strong ability to connect on-site realities back to design decisions. This ability to close the loop between design intent and construction execution is critical in our industry and is not something every graduate possesses.

In short, Blake was a very good intern and a valued contributor to our studio. If the planets aligned, we would've kept him on. I have no hesitation in recommending him for future roles in industrial design, product development, or any design-led environment where technical rigour, teamwork, and a strong work ethic are required.
